

Welcoming Spaces for Gathering and Retreat

The Tribute is designed to feel comfortable whether it's a quiet evening at home or a full house of visiting family. A covered front porch leads into the entry, where a study and formal dining room frame the front of the home. The study offers a private space for work or hobbies, while the dining room is ready for holidays and special occasions without interrupting everyday living.

Beyond the entry, the home opens into the great room and kitchen—an inviting central space where everyone naturally gathers. A large island anchors the kitchen, keeping the cook connected to both the great room and the breakfast nook. From casual meals to conversations around the optional fireplace, this space keeps everyone part of the moment. The breakfast area overlooks the covered patio, making it easy to step outside for morning coffee or relaxed evening dinners.

On one side of the home, three secondary bedrooms share a full bath along with nearby access to the laundry and a convenient half bath. This wing works perfectly for guests or visiting family, giving them their own comfortable corner of the house close to the three-car garage entry.

Across the home, the primary suite offers a quieter place to recharge. Set just beyond the great room, it includes a spacious bedroom, walk-in closet, and dual-sink bath. The result is a home that keeps everyday life flowing easily while still offering a peaceful retreat when the day winds down.
